“ to me long ago, that without aiidlizateon, most of us would never overcome the anxiety of becoming vulnerable to and intimate with a stranger in other words, that romantic infatuation might be a necessary phase in developing intimacy. It sounds to me as if your clients have to face a much more extreme version of the changes we all confront when we marry.

“ Lets start at the beginning with a post i palced here this morning. I went about carrying out my own little test on Google and ranking for my own name earlier today. The results in 6 hours are impressive. Now. Lets make it clear up front. This is just a crazy little test to prove a point that its smarter to have content up in a blog rather than not having any content up. a0I'm no Google master or SEO expert like Gahlord Dewalda0and I'm not a legend Blogger like Jay Thompson the Phoenix Real Estate Guy. I'm just a bloke who knows that the new world is searching information about YOU using search engines like Google. And so many Google search results for so many people I speak to end up with a nil result. All because some people put NO value on creating a digital footprint.
