“ We thank and loved her for accepting us as her own family. The first time I (Sharon) I met Lois was a visit to their home. She had roosters and chickens too, I believe, on plaques, canisters, etc. there were two wall plaques I thought were really pretty and told her I liked them. Lois immediately took them off the wall and handed them to me. She said "They are yours." I argued with her that that's not what I meant, but lost. They were on my kitchen wall for many years. I will never forget her generosity.
