“ Met Norman in 1972 and started playing music with him, one of the first songs we put together was "what kind of girl are you " then there was another called "kickin your" of course life got in the way for both us, and separated until 2016 and we started working together again on project's until his mission on earth was completed and was set free from the bondage of this world. So rest in peace Norm, our road will cross again
