“ I just heard the sad news this morning. My thoughts and condolences go out to the family. I worked with Scot the last few years (mostly remotely since I'm in Oregon) and was able to spend some time with him on one of my visits to the Data Center. Scot was a beacon of positivity, always making sure everyone felt comfortable in group conversations, while at the same time being generous with his humor. He loved his family dearly: I was so tired on one of my trips that I declined his offer to arrange a team dinner. His eyes lit up saying "Well that just means I get more time with my family". I couldn't help but smile and think his family was very lucky since not all husbands and Dads out there want to immediately rush home. I'm certain he was your rock and pillar, and I'm so sorry for your loss.

“ Scot was a great person. He gave freely of his time and energy without regards for personal gain. He sought out people who were struggling and tried to lift them up. It was my honor to call him my friend, and I truly thank his family for sharing him with us for a time. He will live on in our hearts as well.
