“ perhaps I'm just easily distracted, clumsy, absent minded, but I seem to recall an endless stream of, sometimes very sophisticated Everyday Things, that only allow you to insert whatever it is they are swallowing (debit cards, credit cards, parking tickets, etc.) the One True Way. A personal favourite are machines that are smart enough to recognize paper money, but insist on having those fed just right. But I must say this Everyday Thing, or actually the card, has added a nice twist by using that arrow. A perfect 10, I'd say!
